I believe my strength as a leader comes from being practical, consistent, and always open to learning. Doing my Master's in Advanced Construction Management, along with the 10K Women Entrepreneurs Program at IIM Bangalore, gave me a deeper understanding of both the technical side of projects and the realities of running and scaling a business. It helped me look at every decision not just from a design lens, but also from a planning, financial, and long-term growth perspective.

At our design studio, I specialize in business development and oversee the business side, where I focus on building strong client relationships, fostering meaningful collaborations, managing growth, and keeping the foundation of the practice steady. For me, success is about balancing creativity with clear thinking, responsibility, and consistent decision-making.
